PENSION DECISION.

UNDER THE PAYMENTS
$15,000,000 AND $20,000,000.

Hoke Smith Makes Every Which Will
the Nation Many Millions.

May 27.—Probably the most important pension decision from the office of the commissioner of the interior to the commissioner of pensions was filed this morning. It is believed by those high in the bureau that it will be the payment of pension under the act of June 27, between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000.

It gives the repeal of an order of Gen. Raim, and approving the language of the commissioner of pensions, requiring the disability not to be such as to prevent the applicant from earning by manual labor. Secretary Smith has been considering this question for several weeks, and so important that he called to his attention from the pension board of appeals he has the questions involved to the General Olney and Judge Raim, commissioner of pensions, of whom concurred in the correctness of the decision.

The decision is in the case of one John W. Davis, who sought a pension under the act of June 27, 1890, for service at Raleigh, N. C., he was stricken with sunstroke, which resulted in partial deafness in both ears. This application was denied on the ground that while the applicant was slightly deaf, as alleged, he was not of sufficient severity to prevent him from earning his living. The testimony showed that Bennett could watch tick at the distance of an inch from either ear. Bennett subsequently applied for and received a pension of $12 a month under the act of June 27, 1890.
For this act a month's pension amounts from $6 to $12 per month, and to ex-soldiers or sailors suffering from any disability of permanent character, not the result of their own vicious habits, which interfered with them from the performance of manual labor, in such a degree as to render them unable to support themselves. The inability to do a support is, therefore, made the basis of the law. During Commissioner Raim's administration an order was issued down as "order No. 164," which directed that all pensions for a pension under the act of June 27, 1890, should be rated the same as like disabilities of service origin, or that in all cases showing a pensionable disability, which if of service origin would be rated at or above $12 a month, could be rated at $12 a month.

The only requirements to obtain pension under the law applicable pensions of service origin is disability by reason of wounds received or disease contracted while in the service and in line of duty.
Incapacity to perform manual labor," says the secretary, "which is the foundation to the right to pension under the act of June 27, 1890, is an entirely different standard disability from that just mentioned, contained in the revised statutes, covering injuries of service origin. Disabilities incurred while in actual service and incapacity coming upon an applicant after service ceased are made by the law to stand upon an entirely different footing. Those incurred during service and in line of duty are pensionable without regard to incapacity to earn a support, and are graded without reference to the condition. Disabilities resulting from causes other than of service origin are only pensionable when incapacity to labor, owing to the incapacity to earn a support, and the grades of rating are dependent upon these two conditions. When by order No. 164 it was declared that disabilities under the act of June 27, 1890, should be rated as if of service origin, the very principle which governed the rating under the act of June 27, 1890, was displaced, and a rule applicable to a different act was substituted. This case illustrates the fact of the departure by your bureau from the terms of the act of 1890.

"The applicant was awarded for 'slight deafness,' not service origin, $12. The award was made under the act of 1890, which required the rate of deafness of both ears to be graded from $6 to $12.
The highest amount ($12), was only to be allowed in the severest cases of deafness. It was given by your bureau for 'slight deafness' because, under an entirely different act, applicable to disabilities of service origin, $12 was the lowest rating for 'slight deafness'."

"The inability of the applicant to perform manual labor was not taken into consideration. Yet the act of 1890, under which the applicant sought and was allowed a pension, made inability of the applicant to perform manual labor in such a degree as to prevent him from earning a support the foundation of his claim. It is, therefore, clear that the rating under the revised statutes for disabilities of service origin was substituted by order No. 164 for the rating provided under the act of 1890.

"The order having resulted in one error, a second error naturally followed, and the inability of the applicant to perform manual labor was not taken into consideration.
In a word, the act of June 27, 1890, was changed and suspended by order No. 164 as construed by your office, and by a practice that neglected to take into consideration the ability of the applicant to perform manual labor."

Secretary Smith, in another communication to the commissioner of pensions, says that it is hardly necessary to present an argument or to support by authority the proposition that neither the secretary nor the commissioner can, by order or practice, supersede an act of congress, and he therefore directs hereafter the practice of the office to conform to the law.

Death of Rev. T. P. Gwinn.
Rev. T. P. Gwinn, of Oxford, who was stricken with paralysis on Tuesday, died yesterday afternoon at 5:45. He was the father of Mrs.
E. L. Stokes, of Anniston, and Messrs. Ben Gwinn, of Gadsden, and John and Thad Gwinn, of Oxford. He was one of the oldest ministers in Northeast Alabama, and has been preaching in the Baptist churches throughout this section for more than half a century.
He was noted for his deep piety and true Christian character, and his almost faultless life has left its impression for good on thousands who intimately knew him. He was a grand old gentleman morally and of him might but commendation can be said.

The funeral services will take place from his residence at 3 o'clock this afternoon with Masonic honors.—Hot Blast.

Murder Promptly Punished.
PIEDRAS NEGRAS, MEX., May 30.—A few days ago Don Luis Caravengas visited a ranch about forty miles from Durango. This ranch was in possession of a number of squatters and Caravengas often attempted to make them pay rent. The squatters, learned of his coming and they decided on the death of Don Luis and drew lots as to who of the number should commit the crime. Four men were selected and they ambushed and assaulted him and his woe. When the word of the crime reached Durango the governor telegraphed the captain at Taponia and he proceeded with a body of picked men to the scene of the tragedy. Here he learned the particulars of the crime and the names of twenty conspirators. He next proceeded to catch these men. Sixteen of them have been caught and summarily shot.

HEBRON.

Last Saturday was memorial day at Shiloh, the Primitive Baptist church one of the oldest churches in this county. The people began to work on the cemetery early and by 12 o'clock the work was not being completed, business was suspended.
Then the good sisters spread the dinner which they had prepared for the occasion (and they never do anything by halves), we did the subject full justice. Dinner being over, we returned to the cemetery and finished the work. Then the ladies were busily engaged in placing flowers on the sacred mounds, then the work being done, we listened for a while to some short talks from Dr. Webster and others.

SCHENCK'S SPRING.

All day singing at Post Oak church next Sunday.

Aunt Sally Lackey who lived at Alexandria, died last Saturday and was buried at Union church Sunday.

There was a Sunday School to be organized here last Sunday, but the rain kept the people from coming and I presume it will be organized next Sunday.

Mr. J. W. Pierce, who has been absent for several years in California, returned to his home at Tampa last Friday.

Hon. J. D. and Miss Fannie Hammond and Ed Rowan and others visited the Springs last Sunday.

There seems to be more hogs and a better stock in the county than has been for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam McClellan and their sister, of Oxford, visited the Springs last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Reeves are very sick with fever.

For the last two weeks we have had fair weather consequently the farmers have made a considerable headway towards catching up with their work and now the rain has come again which is the saving of the wheat crop.

Mr. Ray has completed all the houses here which he contracted to build except the hotel and now people who desire to benefit or recruit their health will do well to come here this summer from the fact there is no stronger nor better sulphur water in the State, also limestone and freestone. I heard a gentleman say who had spent a month or more here last summer, that he could live here cheaper than he could at home, which was Cedar town Ga., and he expects to come back this summer. So come all ye who wish to benefit your health, if there is not houses enough we have a saw mill here and can build a house or two in a day.

AB JONES ACQUITTED.

A private telegram from an authentic source was received in the city yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, from New Orleans, bringing the news of Ab Jones acquittal of the charge of murder. The telegram contained no particulars of the trial or the discharge of the defendant.

Pelham.

There is much of history and romance in the naming of the Anniston Camp of Confederate Veterans in honor of him whom the world came long ago to know as the Gallant Pelham. There is certainly no minor figure on the Southern side of the great tragedy of the civil war so luminous as John Pelham. He was with us as Custer was with the North, and remains our "First Grenadier."

He died before his time, and died with his face to the front.
Any soldier in the Southern army would have laughed to die where Pelham led, so gallant, so brave, so dashing, so wonderfully fascinating was he. And today memory of him conserves that which is true and that which is most romantic in the record of that deadly strife.

It is fitting that John Pelham should be honored by Alabamians, and it is singularly appropriate that a camp of Confederate Veterans of so much importance as that at Anniston should bear the proud name.—Age-Herald.

A Good One for Deputy Marshal.

Mr. Tom Pelham, of Alexandria valley, will be an applicant for the position of deputy marshal under
Mr. Musgrove the recent appointee.
There is not a truer man, a more gallant gentleman or a more consistent Democrat in Alabama than Tom Pelham, and Mr. Musgrove could not select a man who would make a more efficient deputy in all his district. He was a Confederate soldier himself, going into the struggle when quite young, and displayed his courage on many well fought battle fields. He is a brother of the illustrious John Pelham, whose deeds of chivalry will live as long as the cause of the Confederacy.

But Mr. Pelham can be fittingly honored with this position for his own worth. He did much effective work for the Democracy in the last National contest and is entitled to some honorable and lucrative position.—Hot Blast.

Mr. Davis and The Old Flag.

In Mrs. Davis' life of her husband, she makes this interesting statement concerning the first Confederate flag:

"When we reached the hotel where the President was temporarily lodged the provisional Congress had assembled, he had been inaugurated, and the day of my arrival the Confederate flag had been hoisted by the daughter of Col. Robert Tyler, and the grand-daughter of the ex-President. The family were at that time living in Montgomery.
Mr. Davis was very averse to relinquish the old flag, and insisted that a different battle flag would make distinction enough between the combatants; but he was overruled and a new one substituted, with a blue union containing the stars in white at equal distances; the flag had one broad white and two red stripes the same width."

In spite of the persecution of which he was a victim, and which pursued him even to the grave he never lost his affection for the old flag, under which he had won such distinguished honors as a soldier.
He felt that the Southern people had the largest share in all its glories, and he could not associate the flag with the acts of the party in power which precipitated the country into a conflict which he was anxious to avoid and the excesses of which characterized it in reconstruction and subsequent period.
He cherished the flag which was sacred in his heart, and after the result of the war which left the sections under a common government he always thought that old Confederates, as well as others should cherish it as the flag of our country.—Montgomery Advertiser.

THE EAST AND WEST R. R.

Sold to Eugene Kelley for Twelve Hundred Thousand Dollars.

The East and West railroad was sold at Pell City, at noon, May the 29th for $300,000 in cash, and the receiver's certificates amounting to $900,000, thus making the price paid $1,200,000.

Eugene Kelley, the New York millionaire banker, was the purchaser, the property having been bid for by his young son, Mr. Edward Kelley.

The road was put up to the highest bidder under orders from the United States circuit court, and Mr. Kelley's was the only bid.
Upon the acceptance of his bid he immediately placed in the hands of Cashier Tom O. Smith of the First National bank, of Birmingham, who was present at the sale, a duly certified check for $300,000, being 10 per cent of the purchase money as required by law. The remainder of the money, $900,000, will be paid upon the completion of the title, which will be about thirty days hence.

Special Master of the Court Fred
S. Ferguson of Birmingham made the sale. He and a party of friends and capitalists left the city at 10 o'clock yesterday morning on a special train for Pell City, the train being tendered by the management of the Georgia Pacific road. The party returning arrived in the city at 3:30 in the afternoon.

Nothing is known as to Mr. Kelley's intentions regarding the property, but it has been understood that he intended purchasing it, and it was his purpose to extend the road to Birmingham without delay.
It was published in the Age-Herald several weeks ago that Dr.
Calwell had been approached in regard to terminal facilities for the road in this city.

The East and West road extends from Cartersville, Ga., to Pell City, Ala., a distance of 117 miles, and from Pell City to Birmingham is 27 miles. The road was placed in the hands of a receiver three years ago, Col. Charles P. Ball of Montgomery, some time a member of the Alabama railroad commission, being appointed receiver.

There is little reason to doubt that the road will be extended to Birmingham.

ANNISTON, May 29.—The East and West railroad was sold this morning. A branch of the road extends to Jacksonville, twelve miles north of here, and it is the avowed purpose of the men represented by Mr. Kelley to extend the road to this city at once.—Age-Herald.

A Woman Who Knows Not What Fear Is.

A Uniontown correspondent sends a bit of the history of Mrs.
Taylor Oliver, which shows that the shock exhibited by that fearless woman during the murderous attack upon herself, her husband and her daughter has been characteristic of her during life. The story is as follows:

Many years ago Mr. Daniels the father of Mrs. Oliver, was what was known at that time as a slave driver. During that time he incurred, of course, the hatred of the negro race. After freedom, and when Daniels was living with his family in Jefferson county, a band of negroes determined secretly to murder him and his entire family. A night was selected and a party visited his house in the dead of night and made an attack.

Daniels defended himself as best he could, and Mrs. Oliver, then 17 years of age, shouldered a gun and took a position by the side of her father. In the melee there was a great loss of life, and when the smoke of battle had passed away 7 dead negroes summed up the loss on the attacking side, and none of Daniels was injured. Mrs. Oliver, it is said, did the best shooting and her shots were more effective than those of her father. She does not know what fear is, as she has proved in her recent and most trying ordeal.—Henderson Gleaner.

The Great Dead.

Something of a pathetic interest attaches to the Davis ceremonies to be observed at Montgomery this morning. The muffled drums and roll will bear that old soldier's last tattoo within the walls of the confederacy, and many thousands of veterans of war will gaze mournfully upon the splendid cortege, and forgetting today and deeming not of the morrow, will remember the bitter struggles of the long ago in favor of a contention of which the dead chieftain was the chief exponent. It will be the Day of the Veterans, the last one of national importance they shall know, and their sons, and grand-sons will join them in a fullness of sympathy that will never again be possible.

The veterans of Confederacy not pensioners nor seekers after pensions—are passing rapidly away.
The years are doing what cannon and musket and sword failed to accomplish, and the heroic dead now outnumber the heroes living. The valiant hand, as brave and true and moved by as lofty purposes as any who have gone to battle, since battles began to be fought, were not turned to stone by weeping, nor have they refused to be comforted; but he is hardened, indeed, who does not soften under the spells of emotion that at some times move to tears those brave who fought and lost.

Thirty-two years ago Jefferson Davis drove up the broad street to the capitol, and took the oath as the head of the "greatest rebellion of history." Today, his body, sleeping the last sleep for years, will be borne up that same way to that same capitol, and those who will bear the pall are those who fought as men seldom fight, and those who will escort the last of the immortal dead are the sons of those who fought so valiantly in the days that are done.

We care not what the world shall say. That is to us a matter of supreme indifference. Alabama will honor once more, and in a public manner for the last time forever, him whom Alabama did follow as a leader, whom the State did believe to be right. Every Southern head along the line of that splendidly mournful march this splendidly mournful march this May morning will be uncovered, and for the deeds of the past every true soul will throb with reverence and with admiration.—Age-Herald.

WOMAN'S SILENCE.

Tell me no use to woo a woman
When she thinks she stands to fall Give a woman a only hint
And you'd better take a walk Till she plunges down and settles
When a woman's anger says
This the pleasantest to silence
What she has to say to hear Till no use to try to crowd her Cautious a bound to have her say You talk loud and still talk louder Better haste to break away
When she's in the upper circles Better wander from her year
Than the song she sings in silence
Is the sweetest song to you But you can coax her and caress her
And she'll melt and run to you
As the leaves on your pathway
In your bosom used to do If you have a sorrow, tell her Then just watch her teardrops fall
And the sighs she sighs in silence
Are the sweetest word of all
When you ask a girl to marry
And she hangs on what you've said
And your hope hangs on her answer
And a man hangs overhead
When you seem to see her thinking
And you know she has the call Then her answer, said in silence
Is the sweetest word of all.

A GOOD SNAKE STORY.

WEST POINT, MISS., May 28.—
Mr. W. P. Pope, who has just returned from a visit to his father in Columbus, reports that last night he was awakened by an uncomfortable sensation about his chest, and on fully rousing himself he was startled to hear the unmistakable hiss of a rattlesnake. He struck the solitary match that he could find, which revealed the snake still upon the bed. He hastened to secure a lamp from the family bedroom, and reinforced by his father, returned just in time to see the snake, which would have measured several feet, making its exit through the back door into the dark, where it soon became lost to view. It was supposed its entrance had been made through an open window, over which a vine had very densely grown.

BOTH GROUND TO PIECES.

Terrible Double Casualty on the Central Railroad at Milber, Ga.

MILBER, GA., May 28.—The "Nancy Hanks," the fast train on the Central railroad, which is regarded as a flyer in this section, was today the cause of another tragedy, in which two lives were lost. The train, bound for Atlanta, passes this place about 12:30 p. m.
Today while the train was turning a cut a little below this place, a sudden storm blew up. A jolt of the train told that something had happened, and slowing up the conductor found that his train had run over and killed two persons. They were ground up into an unrecognizable mass.

People who were flying to the scene from all sides said that the dead persons were Rev. William M. Graham and his wife.

Near by there is a little country church in which all the people around hold union services, and Rev. Mr. Graham was the pastor.
He was an aged man, having some years, and was a leader in all local affairs. He had conducted services today as usual and preached with a strength which was noticed while he stood in the pulpit. Just then a terrible thunder storm broke loose. The congregation did not attempt to leave the building, but Mr. Graham and his wife, having some company at home, determined to brave it.

Under the protection of an umbrella they started out, taking the railroad. The rain was beating against their backs as they went their way. It was at that moment that the "Nancy Hanks" came thundering along behind them.
But they evidently never heard the alarm and the train ran them down in full view of a large number of people who were making frantic efforts to give them warning.
The remains were gathered up and will be buried tomorrow.

The assignment of Ex-Secretary of the Treasury Charles Foster is a reminder that men who are successful financiers for the State are often very unsuccessful in their private affairs. Only a genius like Grover Cleveland combines the ability to grasp great affairs and details at once.—Age-Herald.

Camp J. B. Martin.

The old Confederates of Beat No. 1 met at the Court House at 3 p. m. Notwithstanding that the rain had been pouring down in torrents and the notice had been very limited, yet many responded to the summons.

The meeting was called to order, and the Hon. John H. Caldwell was elected to preside over the meeting.

THE GATES OF PARIS.

Almost Everything That Passes Through Them Must Undergo a Tax.

At present the gates and fortifications of Paris seem to be useful principally for the levying of taxes on the French people themselves.

Of this we were forcibly reminded one day, as we approached the Porte Maitot in company with a gentleman who was on his way to fill a lecture engagement at one of the great schools in this city.

Our friend carried a bag containing a few books he was intending to use, and the question to be settled before we could pass was whether anything in the bag was taxable.

To satisfy the gatekeeper the bag must be opened. It was all done quickly enough and with evident politeness, but it struck the American mind quite unfavorably, and of course provoked it to numerous inquiries.

Paris, it appears, lays tribute in this way on almost her entire food supply and upon numerous other things, and the money collected is divided between the government and the municipal authorities.

By this means it comes to pass that many articles are doubly taxed, for in addition to what is assessed upon them at the gates of the city there is a tariff imposed at the frontier.

After this we did not wonder that a visitor had to pay so enormously for apartments and board, though we did wonder at the long suffering patience of the residents.

Meat of every kind is taxed. On a pound of butter the city tariff is 3 cents, also on a pound of grapes it is about the same.

If you should go outside and shoot a hare, you would have to pay for bringing into Paris even a private little acquisition of that sort.

Upon spirits and wine the duty is considerable, and the authorities are exceedingly vigilant in collecting it.

This is a point at which vigilance is quite necessary, judging from what one hears as to the methods of smuggling in vogue.

We are told that during the cholera scare last year were surreptitiously brought in by means of coffins, and we have heard of one enterprising liquor dealer who cheated the government for a long time by means of a dummy footman—that is, he had a wooden contrivance on the seat of his carriage shaped and dressed like a footman, and this innocent looking luxury was filled, not with animal spirits, but with the kind which at the gates of Paris are held to be contagious.

These rules were decidedly clever, and it is said that had it not been for accomplices who turned informers they might have continued in successful operation indefinitely.

Perhaps, however, the countryman's ruse was the most effectual for the time, though it must have put him to inconvenience afterward.

He had only a bottle of common wine with him, but the gatekeeper knew his duty and did it. The tax was 4 cents levied upon an original valuation of something like 12 cents.

Common wine, it must be remembered, is very cheap in France, and this particular bottle would have been cheap enough, one might have thought, even after the duty had been paid.

But the French peasant is noted for his thrift. The burning question was how to get his quart of wine into Paris without any further investment upon it, and the final solution was reached by his carrying it through the gates concealed, as in the case of the dummy footman, within his own anatomy.

Horax in the Household.

It is the housekeeper who reaps most constant benefit from the use of borax, and to one of an experimental turn of mind more and more methods will present themselves.

It is in all cases a safer form than many preparations of soda, and the slightly larger cost would not prevent its use rather than cheap and irritating substitutes, the nature of which can soon be judged by the effect upon the skin.

No less friendly in its action than the forms of petroleum known as vasoline and its preparations, it is one of the gifts of nature, whose surges in this direction are but just beginning and whose resources seem inexhaustible.—Epitome.

When Moving Around at Night.

Paragaphers and funny men will find much food for mirth in the mistake of the man who shot his moth-eaten coat for a burglar.

The moral of the situation lies in the risk attending the practice some people have of prowling around the house at night in the dark. Cases where serious consequences have followed this habit are numerous. If in a city, light the gas. In the country carry a candle or lamp. Put this under the head of things worth knowing or precautions worth taking.—New York World.

Tomato Cabs as Ornaments.

In remote corners of the west the humble tomato can be prized for its ornamental possibilities. The bottom-beds are cut off, pierced for a string and are proudly worn by the Indians, as they used to wear medals, among beads and bears' claws.—New York Sun.

The Retort Uncounted.

Mrs. Uppercrust—Why is it that so many men turn their trousers up this dry weather?

Epitome.—For the same reason women hold up their dresses.—Vogue.

Where the Bible Is Going.

Everywhere in the world the Holy Writ is being sent. When Stanley made his tour of central Africa, tons of volumes were to be found among his supplies, and the authorities are now traveling on pack and on sleds through the frozen polar regions to people who have not only never heard of this book, but to whom books of any sort whatever are entirely unknown. It is estimated that in 90 years the Bible societies of America and abroad have distributed over 230,000,000 copies.—Harper's Young People.

WHEN A WOMAN IS IN DEBT.

If She Owes Five Cents, It Worries Her as Much as a Larger Sum.

The financial transactions of many women are conducted after a plan which the men of the average rank find difficult, of comprehension.

Debt rests upon their minds with a weight that is apt to be in inverse ratio to the amount involved.

Five cents weighs as heavily upon their consciences as $5, but when the obligation amounts into the hundreds or goes entirely past their power of liquidation the burden becomes light.

As summer air, and they cast it aside ever, that their peculiarities are most noticeable. Men make merry over their ways at the soda fountains and the fashion of half a dozen, of them walking to the counter upon the suggestion of one and taking a "Dutch treat"—each paying for her own glass.

Their fashion of disputing over the question as to which shall pay the fare when "two or three are gathered together" on the cars has also served to point many jests.

But there is a phase of the matter that has escaped the critical masculine attention. These same women who accept tickets and candy and car fare and lunches at the hands of men with no oppressive sense of obligation whatever have a very different feeling when another woman pays the bill.

For some mysterious reason they cannot bear a debt, debted to other women.

"What do you think of this?" said a well known Indianapolis lady a day or two ago.

"I was on an Illinois street car, and next to me was Mrs. with her arms and a shopping bag full of packages. The conductor was coming, and she was about to lay down her bundles and explore the depths of her bag for a nickel, so to save trouble I paid her fare. She thanked me, and I thought nothing more of it till this evening, when her servant came to my door and handed me 5 cents which Mrs. said she owed me.

For a moment I felt dreadfully insulted and was on the point of sending back a sharp message, but I reflected that she probably meant no offense. But if she had paid my fare I never would have dreamed of returning it, and what would she have thought of me? Just think of a man sending a message to his neighbor to pay a debt street car debt! Certainly, a decent woman can run 'creetuns.'—Indianapolis Journal.

Texas Is a Great State.

If the entire state of Texas were planted with corn and the hills were two feet apart, and the rows were three feet apart, and if every man, woman and child in the state of Connecticut were set to work in the field to hoe the corn, and each person were also to add two more hills in five minutes, it would take this army of laborers 7 years 280 days and 7 hours to hoe every hill of corn in the state, hoeing continually day and night 365 days each year.

To those persons who have never stopped to consider how great a country they are living in these figures may be of interest. The man who fears that he could not elbow his way around in the crowded street sleeves may gather some solace from the statement that the entire living population of the United States, 75,000,000 souls, divided into families of five persons each, could be located in Texas, each family with a house on a half acre lot, and there would still remain 50,000,000 vacant family lots.—Kate Field's Washington.

The Heart of Robert Bruce.

When Robert Bruce, king of Scotland, lay upon his deathbed in the year 1329 he remembered that he had registered a vow to help wrest the Holy Land from the heathen Turks. It was clear that the time for fulfilling this vow had passed, but a new thought presented. Why not have his heart buried and sent to Jerusalem for burial? To make the story short: This was decided upon, and Sir James Douglas was commissioned to carry it in a silver urn "to a place as near as possible to where the Saviour was crucified" and there bury it.

Arriving in Spain, Sir James, with the precious relic under his neck by a chain, was killed in a battle with the Moors. Sir Simon Lovard returned with the heart to Scotland and deposited it under the altar of Melrose abbey, where it now is.—St. Louis Republic.

Those who know much about boats know that the safe boat is the fast boat, because the fast boat must of necessity be strong. The fast and strong boat never waits for the waves to hustle and buffet it—it goes through them. Once in a while, it is true, an equinox may contrive a gale that will trouble even the Campanian, but a wave requires time to gather itself together and spend its strength, and a fast boat of the right build does not wait.

There are of course fast fair-weather boats, designated to make "record" passages in sunshine and do so, but which flounder in the trough of the sea when the waves roll high. These are impostors, and wise men avoid them.—London Saturday Review.

A Dead Man's Reply.

An old man who was extremely deaf and had a deep, gruff voice went to inquire for a neighbor who was seriously ill. Knocking at the door, he was met by the mother of the sick woman, who answered his inquiry by telling him that her daughter was sinking fast, and it was not possible she could live more than a few hours at most.

"Glad to hear," replied the old man, moving off utterly unconscious of the nature of the answer he had received.—Springfield Homestead.

In the Wrong Chair.

Uncle Treecton (on his way to dentist's office)—Most likely it'll stoppin' by the time I get in the chair. If it does, I swan I'll pretend I've made a mistake and tell him I want a hair cut.—New York Herald.

THE FAMOUS

We've Spread Ourselves.

No harm to look. It will pay you to. You might know that a house with the reputation at stake is not going to tell fairy stories in the papers. We want you to see our $15, $18 and $20 suits, because we are confident they will please you.

They certainly ought to. We've put our time and talent and goodness enough in them. We know that $15 and $18 doesn't sound very much, especially if you've been fooling with tailors prices. If what they charge $30 or $35 for will suit, our $15 and $18 grades are sure to be something of a saving, ain't it? You are not tied down to any style. You have more of a variety here than in a half dozen other stores. The cut of the garment is the latest SINGLE and DOUBLE BREADED SACK SUITS and THREE and FOUR BUTTON CUTAWAY FROCKS.

By the way, have you thought about a business suit
for the spring?

What's the matter with a Double breasted Sack?
There are going to be lots of them worn, and there are scores of neat effects among our stock, some light, some dark, of course betwixt and between shades.
There is lots of style about them; lots of comfort and satisfaction in them.

You see your spring suit and underwear will cost
you less than the suit alone from a tailor.

Are you going to wear negligee shirts this summer?
See our styles and prices. They will interest you.

Jeffersonian Plan of Salon Meets no Favor.

State Democratic Executive Committee to the People Through

Chairman Goodwyn.

Reply Most Wisely

Received--Democracy Is True to the People.

Age-Herald.

State democratic executive committee assembled yesterday in the main parlor of the club. Chairman Smith called the meeting to order at 10 o'clock.

Secretary Thomas H. Clark called roll. The following were present at large: W. H. Lawson, A.

Smith and M. L. Wood.

At-large: John H. Minge, Isaac Grant and H. Burgess.

Second: J. E. Dawson and D. G.

Lin.

Third: S. H. Dent.

Fourth: John B. Knox, H. S. D.

ory and R. D. McMillan.

Fifth: Shirley Bragg.

Sixth: W. D. Windham, W. C.

and J. F. McQueen.

Seventh: W. L. Bullock and J. A.

Smith.

Eighth: J. T. Kirk.

Ninth: R. H. Pearson and A. M.

Smith.

Chairman Smith read the following telegram:

MOBILE, June 5.

A. G. Smith, Chairman:

Nothing but severe sickness has confined me to bed for weeks, would have prevented attendance.

I am willing to sacrifice any form of detail, or change to a reasonable any of the methods adopted the election of democratic nominees and for this reason the proposition is rejected.

2. That as servants of the democracy of the State, we pledge ourselves to see that every voter who desires to affiliate with the party and pledges himself to support the nominees shall be pro-protected in the exercise of his right to support the man of his choice in all democratic conventions and primary elections.

3. That no one shall be excluded from affiliating with the party on account of having supported Kolb in the election of 1892, the only test to entitle anyone to participate in the democratic conventions and primaries shall be an avowed intention to support its nominees.

4. That a convention or a primary election to suit the wishes of the majority of the democratic voters shall be called at a convenient time for the selection of democratic nominees to be voted for on the first Monday in August, 1894.

5. That in all our deliberations and actions we will be governed by the established principles of democracy.

6. That the chairman of this meeting appoint a committee consisting of one member from each congressional district to prepare a response to the communication of the Hon. A. T. Goodwyn of May 12, 1893, in accordance with the foregoing resolutions.

Mr. Bullock favored any reasonable effort at reconciliation, but he could not favor permitting men who voted last November for Weaver or

Harrison to take part in a democratic primary. He therefore opposed the third section of the resolution.

Mr. Malloy moved that section third be stricken out.

Mr. Wood said that the objectionable section went much further than anything the Jeffersonians had asked.

Mr. Bullock moved that all pending questions be temporarily laid on the table, and that a committee of five be appointed to which should be referred the matters brought up by the Kirk resolutions the committee to report at 3 p.

m. The motion was adopted, and the following were appointed:

Messrs. W. I. Bullock, S. H. Dent,

W. H. Lawson, John B. Knox and

R. H. Pearson. The chairman was added by motion of Captain Dent.

Mr. Lawson moved that Gen.

Charles M. Shelley be invited to sit with the committee.

Upon reconsideration, 8 o'clock

p. m. was fixed as the hour for reassembling, and the committee then took a recess.

NIGHT SESSION.

It was 8:25 when the committee resembled. The roll called showed

Messrs. John H. Parker, W. A.

Haynes and Shirley Bragg of the Fifth district had arrived since the morning session, making twenty-three out of thirty-one members present.

Mr. Dawson at once moved that the committee go into executive session. The motion was adopted, whereupon Major Dunklin moved that secretary be instructed to furnish the press with an official report of the proceedings. This was also agreed to, and the doors were closed.

THE OFFICIAL REPORT.

The following reply to the Good-

TO BE SEEN AT THE FAIR.

A VASTNESS WHICH IS OPPRES-

SIVE.

Some Sights Which Strengthen the Impression of Bigness.

The bigness of the world's fair oppresses. When Congressman Seth

Cobb, who has been something of a traveler in many lands, was in St.

Louis, he said to a Globe-Democrat man:

"One railroad has prepared an equipment which will carry 28,800 people hourly from the heart of the city to the gates of the fair and return the same number in the same time. A year ago Chauncey Depew gave an expert opinion that no railroad could deliver more than 5,000 people an hour at the fair.

This road is prepared to carry 432,000 people to the fair and return them to the city in a day of fifteen hours, giving to every person a seat. The preparations which made such results possible cost $3,147,000. They include 340 cars of special design for this work, opening at the sides; forty extra locomotives, nine miles of double track, a signal and switch system costing $1,500,000, viaducts and platforms for handling in the quickest possible manner large crowds. By actual experiment during the rush of the opening day, trains were unloaded in twenty-five seconds. The platforms permit four trains to load and unload at the same time at each end of the route. No other traffic is allowed on the double tracks. Trains follow each other as fast as they can load. Tickets are collected at gates before passengers enter the platforms. This is the system which has solved the transportation problem. It is rightly part of the big-ness of the fair.

The pictures in the art rooms if hung upon one line would cover a mile. Yet the French judges were forced to send back 1,500 worthy of exhibit because there was not room.

A statuette of Emperor William of Germany on horseback contains 1,500 silver dollars.

The section of a tree, shown by its circles to be 401 years old—a sapling when Columbus landed—is in the forestry section of the government building.

Pennsylvania has put up a pyramid of anthracite blocks 10 feet square at the base and 52 feet high, guaranteed to contain just 100 tons.

Wisconsin has a five-acre patch of cranberries growing, and will harvest a crop in September.

A dwarf cedar 300 years old was sent from Japan, but one Chicago winter was too much for it. The little tree is dead.

A china plate, decorated with the German emperor's picture, is 5 feet and 3 inches long, 4 feet and 8 inches wide, 1 1/2 inches thick.

The Wigan Junction colliery in Lancashire, England, has sent a twelve-ton lump of coal.

From George's Creek, in Allegheny county, Md., has come a lump, 15 feet long, 4 feet wide and 3 feet thick. But the Roslyn lump from the state of Washington is larger than either and the largest ever mined. It is 2 feet thick, 26 feet long and weighs over 50,000 pounds.

Missouri's chunk of lead ore weighs 6,500 pounds. Ten thousand specimens of zinc represent that state's industry, which gave

EDUCATIONAL.

Letter From Superintendent

Miller.

ED. REPUBLICAN.—Below you will find as promised two weeks since, extracts from the circular of the State Sup't of Education dated

May 1, and giving suggestion as to subjects to be discussed by speakers at the educational meetings on the 5, 12, 19, and 25 of August and 1st

Sept., in different parts of the county. It is expected that each shall be an all day meeting, with a picnic dinner and five to seven speakers from the best orators we have,

of various avocations of life. Some twelve or fifteen gentlemen have already promised a speech and there are as many more to be invited who will each doubtless respond with at least one speech, so that there will be a literary treat in store for all who attend, and the information which will be imparted concerning education and public schools in this and other states will be of great interest and value to every one present.

Two places have applied for two of the meetings and there will be applications from other localities who then committee on program meets in July, and should there be more than five, it is probable that said committee will appoint additional meetings to those mentioned in the circular of March 29, so that each community that applies can have one.

Before closing I wish to announce that when notified in time I will attend with pleasure the closing and other public exercises of schools and it is my intention to visit all the townships during July and August.

Besides the regular set speeches at the educational meetings in August, the committee on program will make arrangements for part of the time to be devoted to recitations, declamations, music etc, by the bright boys and girls of neighboring schools.

Other county papers please copy this and circular below.

L. D. MILLER,

Co. Sup't Education.

"In order to prepare the way for a general and systematic discussion of the educational interests in this State, and that those who may take part in the campaign may have some idea of the scope and nature of the subjects to be treated, I have thought it proper to give a list of topics, to which others may be added and considered by the speakers.

Every one suffers from Catarrh in the Head. Those who don't have it suffer from those who do. It's a disease you can't keep to yourself.

Here are some of the symptoms:

Headache, obstruction of nose, discharges falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid;

at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody, putrid, and offensive; eyes weak, ringing in ears, deafness; offensive breath; smell and taste impaired, and general debility. But only a few of these likely to be present at once.

The cure for it—for Catarrh itself, and all the troubles that come from it—a perfect and permanent cure, is Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

The worst cases yield to its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties. A record of 25 years has proved that to its proprietors —and they're willing to prove it to you.

They do it in this way: If they can't cure your Catarrh, no matter how bad your case, or of how long standing, they'll pay you $500 in cash. Can you have better proof of the healing power of a medicine?

Phenomenal Success of a Lecture.

"Yes," said the man with the appetite for rye, "it may seem a bit like a fairy story to you fellows, but I was once a temperance orator."

"Trying to work off that old gag about the horrible example, are you?" asked the seedy man suspiciously.

"Not a bit of it," replied the man with the appetite for rye warmly.

"I was just what I said I was, a temperance orator, and I didn't have much to do with horrible examples at

THE FAMOUS

We've Spread Ourselves.

No harm to look. It will pay you to. You might know that a house with the reputation at stake is not going to tell fairy stories in the papers. We want you to see our $15, $18 and $20 suits, because we are confident they will please you.

They certainly ought to. We've put our time and talent and goodness enough in them. We know that $15 and $18 doesn't sound very much, especially if you've been fooling with tailors prices. If what they charge $30 or $35 for will suit, our $15 and $18 grades
are sure to be something of a saving, ain't it? You are not tied down to any style. You have more of a variety here than in a half dozen other stores. The cut of the garment is the latest SINGLE and DOUBLE BREASTED SACK SUITS and THREE and FOUR BUTTON CUTAWAY FROCKS.

By the way, have you thought about a business suit
for the spring?

What's the matter with a Double breasted Sack?
There are going to be lots of them worn, and there
are scores of neat effects among our stock, some light,
some dark, of course betwixt and between shades.
There is lots of style about them; lots of comfort and satisfaction in them.

you less than the suit alone from a tailor.

Are you going to wear regleece shirts this summer?
See our styles and prices. They will interest you.

Don't you think it is about time to get a spring Hat?

ALABAMA BATTALION.

to Recover its Lost Colors.

PUBLICAN:

SIR:—Knowing how much you take in the "old" South, and how ready you are to aid us, I herewith enclose you a correspondence I am conducting with the members of the Second Regiment, trying to find my colors, which were captured at the Gaines Mill, June 27, 1862, and was shot down while leading the charge on the enemy's breast-works.

Many of your readers participated in this battle and will interest in the subject. I would like to see the old flag and if possible carry it to Birmingham on the 17th of July, next, where I hope to meet many of my old comrades.

Yours truly,
M. T. Ledbetter,
Color Bearer 5th Ala. Batt.

Piedmont, Ala.,
April 10, 1893.

LEDBETTER:

SIR:—Your letter of the 10th, received and contents not in reply would say that I had a letter from you in February last but it did not require an elaborate answer unless I learned something definite in regard to the colors of the 5th Alabama battalion which were taken by my command (the 2nd Maine) at the battle of Gaines Mills June 27th 1862.

I have as yet heard nothing from you in anyway give me a letter to your lost colors and when I do you may rest assured that I at once notify you and if I find the colors I will gladly send you the same.

I was entirely ceased with me in Gen'l Lee's surrender and since I have looked upon the colors and South as under one flag of the "stars and stripes" and for common destiny hereafter.

I was at the front of my regiment when you fell together with Capt. Emerson of Co. "E." of my command, and when I saw that the colors were left on the field, I directed Capt. Emerson to detail one of his command to get the colors and bring them to me, which was done. The distance between your colors and my own was within easy range, but on account of the smoke, I could not say just how far. Capt. Emerson died a few days since, and the private who brought in the colors has (or his name) has escaped my memory. Shortly after your retreat both the right and left flanks of our army were surrounded and we were obliged to retreat to the bank of Chickahominy where we remained until midnight and then commenced our march to Harrison's landing and then made a final stand. Immediately after the battle of Malvern Hill your colors I sent home to Bangor, and after the close of the war together with the colors of the 2nd Maine they were deposited in our city building and were used several times upon memorial day and upon other national occasions. I discovered after a time that both my colors and yours were becoming the worse for wear and directed that they should be sent to Augusta, our State capital, for safe keeping—no more to be paraded upon any occasion whatever. My colors, which there was left of them, turned up all right, but yours turned up missing and I have never heard from them since, although we have advertised them in the papers. I most assuredly should be glad to have them returned as you, but while I have a little hope that they may yet turn up, I fear that the chances are against us.

I remain,
Very sincerely yours,
CHAS. W. ROBERTS,
Late Col. 2nd Regt Maine Vol.

BANGOR, MAINE, APR. 27, 1893.

M. T. LEDBETTER,

Piedmont, Ala.

Dear Sir:—Your note of the 17th is at hand. I remember the circumstance very well, as my company was one of the two on skirmish line when you made your attack. I am sorry I can give you no definite information about your flag. I have consulted with Col. Roberts and all the other officers and men of the 2nd Maine, who are attainable and we have advertised in the newspapers for information, and interviewed the Grand Army Post, but so far without success. It seems the colors were sent home with our dilapidated battle flags and given in charge to the city of Bangor. They were seen frequently for some three or four years after the close of the war, but during repairs on the city hall were packed away and lost sight of. When the order was issued to turn in all Regimental colors to the State Capital for safe keeping those of the 2nd Maine were found boxed up in the lumber room, but that of the 5th Alabama Battalion was not with them. There is a chance that the man who brought them in may have taken away, I do not know if he is still living, as he removed some years ago to the central part of the State. We shall try to find his address—it is a last and forlorn hope, but I assure you that nothing would afford the surviving members of the 2nd more pleasure than to return those colors so gallantly borne. If found they shall be sent at once by express to your address.

Very sincerely yours,
W. H. BOXTON.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Apr. 23d, 1893.

Mr. M. T. Ledbetter,

Piedmont, Ala.

DEAR SIR:—Replying to your postal of 17th inst. I would say that I wish I could give you definite information you desire with regard to your flag, or better yet, I wish I could hand you the flag in person. I can only say, however, I remember the circumstance of the capture of the flag—there were two of them—and that they were deposited in the State House at Augusta, Me., after our regiment was mustered out of service. I am surprised that Gen. Roberts did not tell you of that fact, for he must have known it. I would suggest that you write to "Custodian of War Trophies," Augusta, Me., care of Gov. H. B. Cleaves, asking if your flag is there. There is no such officer as "Custodian &c.," but a letter so addressed would be put into the hands of the proper person by Gov. Cleaves, and if found to be there, I will do all in my power to have it transferred to you. I am not living in Portland, but shall return there next month. Should you write me before May 15th, address care John Wauanaker, Philadelphia, after that date, care of Bolter Snow & Co. Portland Me.

Now a word reminiscent. About 30 minutes after we got your flag, I lost my sword. Do you remember that your line charged down into a gulley, across a little stream then started up the other side of the gulley? When half way up we met you and drove you back through the gulley, and on back perhaps 300 or 400 feet beyond your edge of the gully and then it was that you were struck down and we got your flag. Well we retired then to the line where we had first received your flag, we built a slight breastwork of rails, knapsacks etc. and laid down, waiting for your second attack. I unbuckled my sword, laid it down by my side (I was in command of Co. "H.") when your second attack came it was irresistible; we just skeddaddled up the hill behind us, and your fellows at our heels, yelling and firing. I forgot my sword, and was a little delicate about going back through a fighting line of 20,000 Rebs after it just then. I'd give a good deal to know just where it is now, and would like to negotiate an exchange for a Confederate Cavalry sabre that stands in the room where I am now writing—one that I found at the battle of Fredericksburg not long after.

I should be glad to know something about yourself. How badly you were hurt; how long you were in recovering; whether you were in later battles; whether you are a Yankee hater (I don't think you are however) for up North it is only the fellows who never smelled gun powder, or heard the "ping" of a bullet, who shriek sectional hatred, and wave the bloody shirt, and I think it may be so South. The men who actually faced each other in battle, have a respect for each other that the "stay-at-homes" know nothing of. What is your occupation? Do you ever come North? As for myself, I was in all the battles of Virginia from Bull Run to just before Gettysburg; then our regiment was mustered out of service, being a two years' regiment. For the past five years I have been a general manager at John Wauanaker's, but have resigned and shall return to Maine in May.

Yours truly,
Horatio Staples.

P. S. On my return to Maine, I will ascertain what I can about the flag and let you know. H. S.

THE GREAT REUNION.

Important and Highly Interesting Orders and Correspondence.

HEADQUARTERS CAMP HARDEE, BIRMINGHAM, JUNE 10, 1893.

I am directed by the commander of this camp, in response to many individual inquiries to give to the confederate veterans the following directions in reference to the arranged excursion to Chicago.

It is definitely arranged between the adjutant-general of the United Confederate Veterans and the railroad managers leading from Birmingham to Chicago that a train or trains, as the number of excursionists may require, will leave the depot at Birmingham on the morning of July 21, 1893, for the transportation of all veterans, their wives and daughters.

ROUTE OF TRAVEL.

From Birmingham to Chattanooga, Columbus and Sandusky, O. Chicago and Indianapolis, Ind. At Sandusky a lake steamer will carry the excursionists to Cedar Point and Johnson's island.

EXPENSES.

Railroad fare, round trip, $10; lodging and meals entire trip, $13. Minimum aggregate cost of the entire trip, $23.

The time consumed in the trip ten days, four days of which will be consumed at the Columbian fair grounds.

Confederate monument will be unveiled at Oak Wood cemetery, Chicago.

NECESSARY REQUIREMENTS.

It is required that all who desire transportation for this excursion will deposit $10 with the Alabama National bank in this city on or before June 25, which insures the purchase of a ticket for the excursion.

Those desiring further information on this subject will apply in person or by letter to Secretary McMiller, at 313 North Nineteenth street, Birmingham, Ala. It will be observed that this excursion starts immediately after the adjournment of the reunion.

P. K. McMILLER, Sec.

A New York sharper has been advertising a fine steel engraving of the "Landing of Columbus" for $1. When he gets the dollar he sends in return a Columbian two cent stamp. It is very fine engraving, but very small for the money.

Rev. O. R. Blue, presiding elder of the Greensboro Methodist circuit died suddenly a few days ago.

At Montgomery Sunday evening Reuben C. Shorter, died while sitting in his chair.

THE COMMITTEE'S REPLY.

WHAT THE STATE PRESS HAS TO SAY ABOUT IT.

Cordially and Unconditionally Approves It.

Huntsville Argus.

The Argus has only time to say, that it most cordially and unconditionally approves of the reply of Chairman Smith to Chairman Goodwyn. It is absurd for anyone who voted against Cleveland and Stevenson last year to claim a right to take part in controlling the course and destiny of the Democratic party. There is nothing but good, conservative, sound Democracy in what the committee promulgates through Chairman Smith. It could not, with consistency, have said less; there was no need to say more. The statement made by way of reply is frank and it is fair.

THE COMMITTEE WENT TO ITS UTMOST LIMIT.

Tuscaloosa Times.

The Times accepts the reply of the Democratic Executive Committee made through its chairman Hon. A. G. Smith, to the proposition of the Jeffersonians, as the reply of the Democratic party. We are sure that the committee was actuated by a spirit of kindly feeling towards the well meaning members of the party, who thought their grievance sufficient to lead them outside the party organization, and into opposition to it. If the breach can be healed at all, without the surrender of the party to its enemies, this reply of the executive committee will tend to do so. From our standpoint, the committee went to its utmost limit, without referring so grave a question back to the great body of Democrats who commissioned them for the purpose of maintaining the integrity of the party against all opposition. Which can be done only by proper organization.

TO HAVE ACCEPTED WOULD HAVE BEEN SUICIDAL.

Tuscaloosa Gazette.

The reply of the Democratic Executive Committee to the Jeffersonian's proposition through Chairman Smith, will meet the approval of all good Democrats. To have accepted the proposition in toto, would have been suicidal. Its rejection was the only course left. The doors of the party are still open for the return of those who wandered off in the August election. If they wish to return they can do so. We want peace but it must not be at the expense of the Democratic party.

THEY ACTED WISELY.

Chilton View.

The Committee did not accept the proposition submitted to them by the Jeffersonian Committee, but will maintain the dignity and principles of the Democratic party. They acted wisely.

REASONING LOGICAL AND WISE.

Huntsville Mercury.

The State Democratic Executive Committee has seen fit to adopt the late vote in the Presidential contest as the only true test of party fealty, and to receive none into the party council or primary election save those who cast their vote for Cleveland. We bow submissively to this action upon the part of the committee, and while we realize and regret that it will preclude many from future membership with the party who have heretofore been loyal Democrats and who divorced themselves from the party in the heat of passion, still we are constrained to say that the reasoning which led to this action was logical and fair.

Montgomery Advertiser.

Those who are Democrats from conviction and willing to make a square out contest for their principles, are not at all disconcerted by the vapors now indulged in by the opposition. The contest next year will have to be upon well defined lines and every man will have to declare exactly where he stands. There will be no dodging and hiding out. In such a fight the Democrats have nothing to fear.

NORMAL NOTES.

Adieu!

Au revoir!

Good bye!

The Seniors say "the tug of war has come."

Miss—would like for the teachers to remember, "the half can never be told," on examination day.

The following question was asked a few days ago: "Who was the first king to wear a crown?" One girl who prides herself on her knowledge of history, promptly replied, "Good Queen Bess."

The class of '92 had a call meeting one evening during this week, at the home of Miss Ida Woodward, preparatory for their reunion in '94.

Really wonders will never cease. A new fact has been unearthed. One of the girls of the Arithmetic class informs us that the earth makes one diurnal revolution in 365 1/4 days.

This week will close the college doors until another term. A feeling of sadness comes over all as we go forth from these dear old walls, rendered dearer to us by the sweet memories of days of "auld lang syne."

With some it is only "au revoir" with others it is "adieu."

Those who remain to fill our places we bid them God speed. Loiter not on the way, but "gather ye rose buds while ye may, for tomorrow they may be dying."

To those who will soon be out of school life into life's school, we give them our heartiest cheer. We will miss them, but they are eager to go. They are already looking forward to the wide stretching future with so many aspirations crowding into the heart. May their lives be one brave endeavor, one grand sweet song.

"I read what you said about the young lawyers of North Alabama forging to the front," said a disciple of Blackstone yesterday, "and it reminded me that I had seen at the Supreme Court this week an example of the truth of what you said. This young man is an Alabama boy and has made himself by his own worth and character and is rapidly reaching the top of the ladder and before he dies will have no superior at the bar in the State." I refer to J. J. Willet, Esq., of Anniston. He is one of nature's noblemen and has worked himself to the front. He enjoys the largest practice at the Anniston bar and his papers and pleadings before the Supreme Court are models of legal learning. Such as he deserve to succeed. —Montgomery Advertiser.

A Missouri editor says he has a subscriber who gets drunk every little while and invariably insists on paying a year's subscription. He has his paper paid in advance up to 1926. We wish the editor of that paper would find out what brand of whisky the fellow drinks and send us a few gallons; we will pay him a good price for it, and if it proves what he says, will take a barrel. —Clebourn New Era.

The Piedmont Inquirer says: "The Piedmont cotton factory spurs and talks not, but it is told in well-informed circles that it declared a 50 per cent dividend on its first year's business."

L. W. GRANT, Publisher.

SATURDAY, JUNE 17, 1900.

Ford's opera house in Washington city, occupied by 500 government employees, collapsed some days ago and twenty-five were killed and many were wounded.

Cotton took a sudden rise twenty-seven points Tuesday. Unfavorable crop reports and cold weather in the cotton belt is supposed to be the cause.

Judge Street, of Marshall county, has written a letter to the Birmingham Age-Herald, in which he takes the ground that the registration feature of the Sayre election law is unconstitutional.

The attention of Confederate soldiers is invited to the publication in another column about the proposed soldiers' excursion to Chicago. Twenty-three dollars covers the round trip, including board and lodging for ten days, which is exceedingly low.

The serene confidence of the Democratic newspapers throughout the State is very reassuring to all who hope for Democratic triumph in the next State election. The editors keep well posted on the political situation in their counties and know what they are talking about when they write of the situation.

The National Economist does not approve of Capt. Kell's candidacy as a Jeffersonian Democrat. It thinks a man should be a Democrat, Republican or Populist, the only three political parties now recognized in the United States. It does not think the people ought to encourage any side show parties for the sake of any man. The Economist is supposed to lean to the Populist party.

The editorial Association of Alabama met in Bridgeport a few days ago and from all accounts the boys have been having a royal time. They had excursions galore on the Tennessee river by boat and to local points of interest by rail, and will later enjoy a free ride to the Chicago fair. The editor of this paper regrets that outside matters kept him from meeting his brothers of the quill this year at the lovely and growing town of Bridgeport.

The Democratic and Conservative party of Alabama escaped its greatest danger when a majority of its Executive Committee sat down on those members of the committee who attempted to deliver it over to the tender mercies of the men who tried to break it down last November. All talk of reconvening the committee for a reconsideration of its action is bosh. If the committee should do so foolish a thing the rank and file of the party would repudiate the committee.

A statement of the Secretary of the United States treasury shows that the Government has lost nearly eleven million dollars in the purchase of silver bullion under the act of July 90, known as the Sherman act. That is to say the bullion at present market price is worth that much less than the Government gave for it. The statement further shows that under all the acts of Congress since 1878 there has been coined four hundred and sixteen million, two hundred and four thousand, eight hundred and thirty-five dollars in silver, or more than fifty times as much as was coined during the previous period of eighty years.

Mr. Seymour, of Sumter county, has been appointed consul to Palermo, Italy. Hon. Norlie Harris, of Hale county, has been appointed consul to Leeds, England, and Mr. Lucien Walker, of Birmingham, has been appointed consul to Cork, Ireland. Each of these places has a salary of $2,000 a year attached. Mr. O. Randall has been appointed Internal Revenue Collector for Alabama, in place of Robt. Mosely resigned. The place is worth several thousand dollars a year. Mr. Randall will live at Montgomery during his term of office. These are all good appointments. Mr. Seymour was a Kolb man in the August election, but voted for Cleveland and Congressman Bankhead in the November election following.

We regret to hear that some of the old Confederate soldiers of Calhoun are inclined to hold aloof from the Confederate Veterans Association on the ground that it is political in its nature and is designed to operate against the Alliance. This is a very great mistake. The Association is not political in any sense of the word. It embraces men of all shades of opinion, and any man who should attempt to use it for political purposes would be very quickly tabooed. It is nothing more nor less than what it purports to be—an association of the gallant men who fought for the Southern cause, to keep alive the memories of that glorious struggle, and for the preservation of the facts of history, for the care and protection of those of their comrades who are poor and afflicted, for the cultivation of social intercourse among the survivors of the war and for the general purpose of preserving that spirit of comradeship which should characterize men who shared for four years a common danger and illustrated in the highest degree Southern valor and fortitude. To this end it is recommended that each neighborhood, where twenty-five names can be enrolled, have an encampment, so that there may be frequent meetings. At intervals all the camps may come together, as is proposed now at Birmingham, where old friends may meet and renew the ties which bound them during the long years of a common suffering and a common danger. And there may also be county meetings, where all the old soldiers of a county may come together in camp once a year and swap experiences and renew the friendships of the long ago. Such an association appeals to all the most generous instincts of the warm hearted people of the South. Such an association, so far from becoming political in any degree, will serve to stangle political animosities and temper the struggle for place and power in this State. Men may differ as to who shall be governor or as to what shall be the policy of the government in respect to finance and taxation, but they cannot hate each other when they thus meet and look into each others' eyes and see there, albeit blurred with age, the flashes of that same invincible spirit which challenged the admiration of a world, or the same old friendly regard that led each to willingly peril his own life to save a comrade. Admiration of true courage here, gratitude for signal personal service there, a common place on the most glorious page of history for all, would so weld these old soldiers together and so absorb them in the glories of the past that there would not be room for partisan feeling or time for the dirty and contemptible work of political intrigue at the seasons of their reunion. No, no, the Confederate veterans can never descend to the level of a political or partisan organization. It would be a most contemptible ending of a most glorious beginning. No man who respects them for their valor or loves them for their devotion to their country, who respects them for their sufferings and their wounds would have them do so for any consideration whatever. They have a higher work than this. They belong to history and it is their task to see that it be fairly written. The ephemeral elevation and dignity of a mere governor of Alabama, the offspring of political intrigue, is nothing, but the humblest private in the ranks of the Confederate army, who did well his duty, will walk down the avenues of history arm in arm with immortal honor and immortal glory.

The business outlook has greatly improved the past few days and a feeling of confidence is rapidly being restored. It is greatly due to President Cleveland's announced purpose to convene Congress in September to consider the repeal of the Sherman silver purchase act and other matters pertaining to the financial policy of the government. Some of the leading financiers of the country are predicting that within a few months money will be more plentiful, and at a lower rate of interest, than for many years.

The populists who have been contesting the offices of Shelby county were knocked out of court a few days ago on the ground that they had not resorted to the proper proceedings at law to test their right to the offices. Judge Brickle was the lawyer of the democrats now holding the offices. The contest came up before Judge Box at a special term of the circuit court, called to try these cases.

The Selma Times makes a very sensible observation when it says there is no reason why the next canvass for Governor in this State should assume the "bitter" aspect some of the newspapers are predicting. The Times says in effect, that this is a free country, in which each voter has a right to his opinion, and political issues and the right of choice of candidates, and his neighbor has no reason to become offended with him because of a difference of opinion or choice.

If voters throughout the State would take this view of the case, the next canvass would be one of reason and friendly rivalry, and so it will be among the most intelligent. In any election it may be noted that the leaders on both sides are on good terms with each other and scrupulously polite in their bearing, while the most ignorant and prejudiced of the rank and file are ready to fight at the drop of a hat.

A man is a great fool to let politics work an estrangement between himself and a friend. All men can not think alike any more than they can look alike; and it is unwise for friends and neighbors to quarrel because of a difference of opinion, which they cannot any more help than they can help their difference in appearance. Sensible men take the world as they find it and do not hope to force all men to their way of thinking any more than they hope to force all men to resemble them in feature.

Therefore, whatever may be the state of feeling in Alabama the coming year, let us of Calhoun keep cool and thus show our good sense. If you are for one man for Governor, that is your right and you have the privilege of saying what you can to secure his election. If your neighbor is for another man, do not forget that he has the same right and privilege that you claim for yourself. Eschew speakers and newspapers which seek to inflame prejudice and passion. Neither the speakers nor the editors feel what they say and write when they thus "tear passion to tatters." They are merely playing you as so many pawns on the political chessboard and they despise you more the more you become excited under their skillful manipulation. Go any election day to the beat court ground and there pick out the individual who is most angry and excited because voters are not going his way, and you are sure to find the biggest fool in the beat.

Hon. Gaylord B. Clark, of Mobile, died the 14th inst. He was one of the foremost lawyers of Alabama and a member of the State Executive Committee of the organized Democracy. It will be remembered that Mr. Clark was too sick to meet the committee in Birmingham, but wrote a letter placing himself on record as being against the proposition to surrender the organization of the party to its enemies.

The numerous friends of Maj. R. O. Randall, of Gadsden, heretofore rejoiced at his appointment to be Revenue Collector for Alabama. It is an honor worthily bestowed. He will make a good one and in the administration of his office demonstrate the wisdom of his selection by President Cleveland.

The outlook for Jacksonville is very bright and the gloomy faces of a short while ago are taking on smiles again, and the last croaker has about retired from business.

IN THE COUNTY

Schenk's Springs.

Mr. Frank Howard, an old and good citizen, died last Saturday and was buried at Union Church on Sunday.

There was a large crowd from different points visited the Springs last Sunday and among whom was my old friend Oscar Crook, also Miss Addie Hammond, Dr. Ed Crook, Dr. Ragan and a small party of ladies and gentlemen from Pell City.

The weather is fine and the farmers are happy. Reaping of small grain is now the order of the day. Mr. Ray has just finished up a house of seven rooms for the purpose of taking in boarders.

Can or will not the veterans of Camp Martin have a picnic here the 4th of July? I think by so doing they would get a great many recruits. Let's hear from you, old Vets.

I would like very much for Bro. Sam Slim, of Oxford, to visit the Springs some time soon, for I know he would be so delighted with this part of the country that on return he would write a good long letter about it.

Saved

the life that is fighting against Consumption.

Only - act promptly.

Put it off, and nothing can save you.

But, if taken in time, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will certainly cure.

It must be done through the blood - and the "Discovery" is the most potent blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder that's known to medical science.

The scrofulous affection of the lungs that's called Consumption, and every form of Scrofula and blood-taints, all yield to it. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma, and all severe, lingering Coughs, it's an unequalled remedy. It's the only one that's guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

"We promise to cure your Catarrh perfectly and permanently; no matter how bad your case - or of how long standing - or we'll pay you $500." That's what the proprietors of Dr. Sagar's Catarrh Remedy say to every sufferer from Catarrh. And they mean it.

Stockholders' Meeting.

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of the Tredegar Brick and Tile Company is called to meet at the office of the Secretary on the 17th day of July 1893, for the purpose of considering the advisability of placing a mortgage on the property of the Company to secure money to pay existing liabilities and for working capital.

THE FAMOUS We've Spread Ourselves.

No harm to look. It will pay you to. You might know that a house with the reputation at stake is not going to tell fairy stories in the papers. We want you to see our $15, $18 and $20 suits, because we are confident they will please you.

They certainly ought to. We've put our time and talent and goodness enough in them. We know that $15 and $18 doesn't sound very much, especially if you've been fooling with tailors prices. If what they charge $30 or $35 for will suit, our $15 and $18 grades are sure to be something of a saving, ain't it? You are not tied down to any style. You have more of a variety here than in a half dozen other stores. The cut of the garment is the latest SINGLE and DOUBLE BREASTED SACK SUITS and THREE and FOUR BUTTON CUTAWAY FROCKS.

By the way, have you thought about a business suit for the spring?

What's the matter with a Double breasted Sack?

There are going to be lots of them worn, and there are scores of neat effects among our stock, some light, some dark, of course betwixt and between shades. There is lots of style about them; lots of comfort and satisfaction in them.

You see your spring suit and underwear will cost you less than the suit alone from a tailor.

Are you going to wear reglee shirts this summer? See our styles and prices. They will interest you.

Back in Reply to Chairman Smith--A Weak Document

MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA, June 8th, 1893.
A. G. Smith, Chairman of the State Executive Committee of the Organized Democratic Party, Alabama:

SIR--Since receipt of your favoring the State Executive Committee of the Organized Democratic Party on May 12th, I have conferred with the members of the Executive Committee of the Jeffersonian Democratic Party, and have been instructed to submit the following answer:

Our committee is fully aware since 1872, that as a rule, the people of Alabama, whether traders or favoring a protection, whether in favor of or opposed to internal improvements, the government, whether in or of gold standard, gold and silver standard,--in fact, regardless of any views they might entertain, any economic or constitutional question, in state elections, have gone their political predilections, proclivities, and voted the democratic ticket. It is needless to state that it was almost universally regarded as essential to maintain white supremacy and generally believed to be necessary to assure good government and an honest administration of our state affairs.

The Jeffersonian State Executive Committee recognized these facts when it submitted its proposition. It also recognized the disinclination of the white people to yield this system and the possibilities of danger from the abandonment of this generally adopted policy. It also proposed to accord sufficient deference to this sentiment in the state, to avoid any innovation upon established and recognized rules and policies. The Jeffersonian Committee does not admit that it was mistaken in interpreting the wishes of a majority of the white people of the state as favoring a continuance of that system of management in state affairs. The Organized State Committee, however, fully cognizant of this system, its operations and the wishes of the people, have decreed that it should no longer exist, and while professing the greatest anxiety and deepest solicitude for peace and amity, it ruthlessly made a counter proposition that if any elector voted otherwise than for Cleveland and Stevenson, that he would be debarred from participation in any of the party management; but, it graciously condescended to permit him to vote a ticket to be nominated by the combined white and colored voters who supported that ticket.

It is difficult to comprehend how the zeal and ardor for harmony and peace could have existed to the extent expressed by the Organized Executive Committee without some substantial effort having been given in its expression. That Committee had the same power and the same authority to make a counter proposition that the Jeffersonian Committee had to take the initiative in tendering "the olive branch." It could have given force to its laudable expressions in favor of peace and harmony as easily as it could have formulated such empty words, which are as "sounding brass and tinkling cymbal." It may well have attempted to avoid the responsibility for its course by such pretense, when it is plain, that in effect it did make a counter proposition, by its utterance of an ultimatum as to qualification to participate in a primary or convention of that faction.

The Committee of the Organized Democratic party insists that it is "unequivocally opposed to all legislation tending to or providing for the disfranchisement of the white masses." A fact is worth any number of theories, and demonstration is more conclusive of a fact than any number of avowals or asseverations. Recall the facts of record, and let us see what the demonstrations show. It will be remembered that during the recess of the legislature, several leaders of the Organized Democratic Party published letters advocating the limitation of the right of suffrage to conform to the system which now exists in Mississippi. Those letters were generally commented upon favorably by the press and endorsed by all the papers recognized as organs of that faction. The Speaker of the House assumed the role of leader of the movement, published a letter accepting the call upon him to inaugurate the policy and to carry it to successful consummation. He published a letter in the Age-Herald, which left no doubt that the intention and purpose of the movement was to adopt the Mississippi plan. The following extract from that letter leaves no doubt as to that point:

"Let us go before them with a call for a constitutional convention; ask for their permission, frankly and fairly, to change our fundamental law in regard to elections, and adopt, substantially, the Mississippi system." Letter from Frank L. Pettus in Age-Herald, dated Selma, December 28 1892.

In accordance with his avowals, he introduced a bill in the house, on the reassembling of the General Assembly, which provided for a call for a state constitutional convention, and so that there would be no doubt of the object of that faction, it contained the following:

Sec. 6. "Be it further enacted, That said convention shall consider, among other things, qualifications for suffrage in this state, and shall consider the following as an additional qualification, to-wit: No person otherwise qualified shall be permitted to vote at any election in this state, unless he is able to read and write the English language, or has served as a soldier, sailor or marine in the late war between the states, or if he reside within the corporate limits of a city or town, own property to the value of two hundred and fifty dollars, or if he live without the corporate limits of a city or town, own forty acres of land."

tion is more conclusive of a fact than any number of avowals or asseverations. Recall the facts of record, and let us see what the demonstrations show. It will be remembered that during the recess of the legislature, several leaders of the Organized Democratic Party published letters advocating the limitation of the right of suffrage to conform to the system which now exists in Mississippi. Those letters were generally commented upon favorably by the press and endorsed by all the papers recognized as organs of that faction. The Speaker of the House assumed the role of leader of the movement, published a letter accepting the call upon him to inaugurate the policy and to carry it to successful consummation. He published a letter in the Age-Herald, which left no doubt that the intention and purpose of the movement was to adopt the Mississippi plan. The following extract from that letter leaves no doubt as to that point:

"Let us go before them with a call for a constitutional convention; ask for their permission, frankly and fairly, to change our fundamental law in regard to elections, and adopt, substantially, the Mississippi system." Letter from Frank L. Pettus in Age-Herald, dated Selma, December 28 1892.

In accordance with his avowals, he introduced a bill in the house, on the reassembling of the General Assembly, which provided for a call for a state constitutional convention, and so that there would be no doubt of the object of that faction, it contained the following:

Sec. 6. "Be it further enacted, That said convention shall consider, among other things, qualifications for suffrage in this state, and shall consider the following as an additional qualification, to-wit: No person otherwise qualified shall be permitted to vote at any election in this state, unless he is able to read and write the English language, or has served as a soldier, sailor or marine in the late war between the states, or if he reside within the corporate limits of a city or town, own property to the value of two hundred and fifty dollars, or if he live without the corporate limits of a city or town, own forty acres of land."

At the time of the introduction of this bill, it was declared that it was the true interpretation of the meaning of the thirteenth plank in the platform of the Organized Democracy, which was adopted by the Capitol Convention of 1892. The thirteenth plank demanded that the government of the state "should be more securely controlled by the virtuous and intelligent." The demonstration of its meaning was in the extract quoted from Mr. Pettus' bill. This bill was reported upon favorably by the judiciary committee of the house, and the leaders of that faction advocated its passage upon the floor of the house. When it was defeated, the Sayre bill was urged as a compromise, and accepted by some of the more conservative members of the house who refused to support the Pettus bill.

In the discussion of the Sayre bill, it was urged that the power given the county and beat registrars, with the power to control the voter vested in the precinct inspectors and "fixers" appointed by them, would curtail the vote and vest control in "the virtuous and intelligent;" that is to say, the illiterate, seeing that they would be placed in the control of the inspectors and fixers, and those of limited education fearing that they would be placed in an embarrassed position by only having five minutes to make their ticket, and being debarred from calling a friend to their aid, each of this class of voters would refuse to vote. The difference to the man who may be robbed of his right to vote in the process, the plan, the arrangement or the way by which it shall be done, or by declaring that he shall not vote, is immaterial. It is the robbery of the right that affects him. It is the fact he is debarred from voting against which the complaint is lodged.

In addition to the foregoing, to disprove this avowal of the Organized State Executive Committee, the following extracts from organs of that faction, in discussion of the Jeffersonian proposition, and as assignment of reasons, why it should not be adopted, are to the point.

The Birmingham Daily News says that the Sayre bill does limit suffrage but does not go far enough:

"If section 15 is intended, as has been suggested by the Age-Herald and it so appears to the News, to require a pledge from every candidate against the Sayre election law, the News would enter its objection to it. In its judgment, LIMITATION SHOULD BE PLACED UPON THE NEGATIVE FRANCHISE; the Sayre election bill does not go far enough to meet what some see fit to call the progressive views of the News."

The Tuscaloosa Times says the Sayre bill puts the power in the hands of those best qualified to serve the people. It says:

"Opposition to all legislation of the Australian ballot is a direct slap at the Sayre election law, one of the wisest measures ever conceived by Alabama law makers, guaranteeing as it does absolute purity of elections, while placing authority in the hands of those best qualified to serve the people and promote their interests. The Sayre law represents the only constitutional method by which this can be done, yet we are asked to nullify it. God forbid!"

The Anniston Hot Blast refers to the pledge that candidates shall take against laws to disfranchise, viz:

"The Jeffersonians claim they are willing to come to terms. Then they must not ask Democrats to affiliate and denounce an election law which was passed by a strict party vote at the last session of the legislature."

The Bessemer Weekly insists that reform by limiting suffrage is the policy of the organized, and that it cannot retreat from its position. It says:

"In the second place the acceptance of the proposition would stultify the democratic party. They have started in for suffrage reformation; TO CONFINE THE BALLOT TO THE INTELLIGENT AND VIRTUOUS. In the last legislature the democratic party had passed the Sayre election bill, in which there is partial disfranchisement on account of ignorance. THE PARTY CANNOT RETREAT FROM THIS POSITION NOR FROM THE ADVOCACY OF THE PRINCIPLE."

When the 4000 colored participants in a primary in Wilcox shall poll their vote, how will the 650 white "organized" democrats stand as to relative strength? If these colored people, in all these counties shall participate, and elect those of their color as delegates to a county convention, and then elect their representatives to a state convention, what would be its complexion? If all the colored voters should be allowed to participate in the primaries and conventions, the next state convention will contain a majority of colored delegates. Is that the purpose of the new rule? If not, is it the intention to rob or cheat them out of their rights under the rule?

These inquiries may seem impertinent, but they are practical and logical; particularly in the light of the very gracious invitation to all the colored electors who voted for Cleveland, to join the organized democratic party.

Another thought in this connection: In the state election of 1892, these counties are credited with having cast the following vote for governor, viz:

Counties.	Jones.	Kolb.
Autauga,	1027	844
Barbour,	3470	2180

Perry,	2953	1221
Russell,	2766	1099
Sumter,	2042	1543
Wilcox,	5018	668

Total, 48,639 18,948
Jones' majority 29,691.

According to the rule heretofore in vogue, of allowing each county one delegate for each 300 votes cast in the previous state election, Wilcox will have sixteen delegates. By all rules of fairness, if the colored voter shall be permitted to participate in the primaries and conventions, he ought at least to represent the vote cast by his color, which would give Wilcox two white and fourteen colored delegates. That seems to be the status under this new dispensation. As this is a fair and legitimate construction of the qualification of voters in primaries, and the other deductions are fair and legitimate, is it not time for the "organized" to inquire whither it is drifting?

There is another deduction from the figures above given for governor, that the people of the whole state might consider in connection with the present claims of the organized of being the white man's party of Alabama. In these fifteen counties the vote for governor shows that Jones received 48,639, and Kolb 18,948. The number of white votes in these counties, according to the census of 1890, was 22,046. Jones received about half of those white votes, which would give him 11,023 white votes. His majority was returned as 11,437 votes. Now deduct the white vote he received, from the total vote accorded him in the black counties, and it shows that he had 37,616 colored votes. His official majority, as returned, accorded him 11,437. This shows that all his majority of 11,437 and 26,179 more votes--all colored--were used to "assure" his election.

That being true, it seems that holding office by colored votes has become so alluring and fascinating to the organized democrats that they propose to embrace the colored brother, take him into their councils and share the honors with him. That is the meaning of what has been given the public.

In view of the fact that your committee has placed all hopes of reconciliation and peace beyond the reach of the Jeffersonian Democracy, except upon terms which require forfeiture of manhood and self-respect, as Chairman of the State Executive Committee of the Jeffersonian Democracy, I shall deem it unnecessary to call a formal meeting of said committee to consider the answer made by the organized Democratic State Executive Committee.

Permit me, in behalf of the Jeffersonian committee, to assure your committee that the members of the Jeffersonian committee regret that an effort prompted by a sense of fidelity to present opportunities and conditions, in which the future welfare of our people is so seriously involved, should have been so peremptorily and emphatically rejected.

Very respectfully,
A. T. GOODWYN,
Chairman State Executive Committee Jeffersonian Democracy of Alabama.

THE SAYRE ELECTION LAW.

Judge Crook, of Calhoun, Differs With Judge Street, of Marshal, As to its Constitutionality.

To the Editor of the Age-Herald:

JACKSONVILLE, Ala., June 16, 1893.--I notice in the Age Herald of the 15th a letter from Judge Street, giving his construction of the Sayre election law and his opinion that said law is unconstitutional. The propositions of law laid down by Judge Street and the authorities quoted by him to sustain his position will not be disputed. If the Sayre law read as quoted by Judge Street, then I would say his opinion was correct, and the law undoubtedly unconstitutional. Now, let us see what the law does say: Section 13--"That it shall be unlawful to register any person except in the precinct or ward in which such person is entitled to vote," and in section 4 "That the registrar in each precinct or ward shall begin registration on the first Monday in May and shall continue the same for eighteen successive days. Sundays excepted, except in cities of 10,000 or more inhabitants, where thirty days time shall be allowed." Then section 5 provides that it shall not be lawful to register any elector after the time herein specified, except those who have come of age since the last registration.

Who, then, are entitled to register? The constitution of the state of Alabama says every male citizen who shall have resided in the state at least twelve months, the county three months and precinct or ward thirty days immediately preceding the election at which he offers to vote, shall be entitled to his vote. Then, under the Sayre law, all electors who are entitled to vote are qualified to register. This far, I think, Judge Street and I agree, and then we part company. Being a qualified elector, and having registered, you are now ready to vote--but, says Judge Street, in order to do so, you must reside in the precinct where you have registered from May 21 to August to vote in state elections, and for about six months to vote in federal elections. The Sayre law does not say so, and I do not draw such an inference from its reading. You have complied with the law, and hold your certificate of registration, and my construction of the law is that now you are a qualified elector, so far as the Sayre law is concerned, and, armed with your certificate of registration, you can vote anywhere in the state of Alabama, if not disqualified by the constitution.

To illustrate, I live in precinct No. 1, am entitled to vote in said precinct, I register and obtain my certificate in May; then I move into precinct No. 2 thirty days, or more immediately preceding the election in August. I hold that under the Sayre law, in connection with the constitution of the state,

I am entitled to cast my vote in precinct No. 2 by presenting my certificate of registration to the managers of the election in that precinct, and satisfying them that I am the person named in the certificate. I also take the position that having registered in May in Calhoun county, and I move to Talladega county in precinct No. 1 three months before the federal election in November, I am entitled to vote in said election by presenting my certificate of registration and satisfying the managers that I am the person mentioned in said certificate.

I take the Sayre law to be a safeguard thrown around our elections, and in no way antagonistic to our constitution. I see in the law but one serious objection and I am not prepared to say what figure that will cut as to its constitutionality; that is, the Sayre law says you must present your certificate of registration before you can vote. Suppose I have lost my certificate then I cannot vote, but am disfranchised, as the law does not provide a way by which I can obtain a duplicate or prove my rights as an elector. I have merely given in this my views of the objections to the law sprung by Judge Street, and as this might prove a very serious matter, and being one of the officials upon whom a great part of the work under the law devolves, and who will be asked many times in regard to the question here sprung, I would like to have Mr. Sayre's opinion in this matter, and would like to see it fully discussed and a conclusion reached. Truly yours, EDMETT F. CROOK.

A DIABOLICAL ATTEMPT

To Kill A Young Man By Strychnine Happily Frustrated.

SCOTTSBORO, June 17.--News has reached here of a most diabolical attempt to murder a respected and wealthy young farmer named Hembree at Carpenter, Ala., yesterday. The means used was a bottle of poisoned whisky, which was handed him by B. E. Ladd, assistant postmaster of that place, who stated that it had been received as mail.

The bottle had a label on it purporting to be from a "Gintanough" firm, stating that it was a sample of some fine new goods that they had just received in stock. Hembree only drank a little of the whisky and soon became very sick. Medical aid was promptly called in and Hembree was still alive at last accounts, with chances of his recovery.

The bottle, holding about a quart, was analyzed and was found to contain enough arsenic to kill fifteen men.

INFORMATION FOR THE VETERANS

The Daughters of the Confederacy to Be Organized Soon.

Tickets to Chicago--The Wagon About Completed. Entertainment Notes.

The painters will soon be through with the Winnie Davis wigwag on First avenue. The carpenters are busy making seats and arranging the platform. The space needed for the officials and prominent old veterans and citizens will necessitate a stage across the Morris avenue end of the Morris avenue end of the wigwag. The electric lights and fans will be put in place this week. The water works company will put in several water pipes, sufficient to furnish a good supply of water.

The ladies of Birmingham who are daughters of confederate soldiers are taking active steps looking to the formation of an organization, as has been done in so many states of the south, known as the "Daughters of the Confederacy."

Their primary object is to form an organization, by which they will be able to give practical organized assistance to the Confederate veterans as is entertaining the large number of old soldiers who will be here the third week in July.

Their ulterior object will be the extension of the association of the Daughters of the Confederacy, throughout the state by the formation of auxiliary societies in every county, with the final purpose of purchasing a home for aged and infirm confederate soldiers.

One prominent lady in Birmingham has procured all literature giving necessary information as to the method of forming the association, and it is expected that the organization will be perfected during the coming week. The appeal will be one that cannot be overlooked, for there are many old soldiers in Alabama who have been plodding along, and their declining years finds them without means to support their old age. The object appeals to every southerner. The next legislature will be asked to make a small appropriation for the maintenance of such an institution after the Daughters have secured the grounds and necessary buildings.

TICKETS TO CHICAGO.

Secretary of Camp Harder, Maj. McMiller has been receiving numerous inquiries as to the purchase of excursion tickets to Chicago from Birmingham. He desires it stated that all who wish to go to Chicago must forward their money for tickets by the 25th of June by depositing the amount with Capt. Joseph F. Johnson at the Alabama National bank. All who deposit their fare with him by that time will be able to secure excursion tickets. It will be impossible to procure them in any other way except by personally forwarding to the World's Fair company at Chicago. It will be much better and easier to deposit the money with the bank here.

There will be a few sleepers from Birmingham in each section. There will also be a baggage car in each section. Lavatory arrangements will also be provided and refreshments furnished under the supervision of the old veterans. Those intending to go to Chicago, when they deposit their fares, must say whether they want hotel or tent accommodations while in Chicago. The tent accommodations will be about one-third of the cost of a hotel.

The orchestra for the entertainment will meet on Monday night and the vocalists will meet on next Thursday night. The stage in the wigwag will be completed Monday.

The following quotation explains itself: "A constant corn diet is to be avoided, especially as a food for colts. It is extremely doubtful if corn for colts is ever advisable. Furthermore it is injudicious to feed horses or mules upon corn, as the only grain food at any other time except the cold period of winter. In fact there is no time in this climate when corn alone is really required by the system. Far better results will be obtained by using oats as the staple or chief grain food, and at times, equal parts of ground corn and cow peas, or equal parts of ground corn, cow peas and oats, or equal parts of ground corn and wheat bran, may be substituted for oats alone. An exclusive corn diet should always be avoided with horses or that have weak or diseased eyes. Corn alone contains too much fat and heat producing food and not enough muscle and bone forming food."

Mr. P. A. Easterwood and family after spending a week here returned home Sunday.

Rev. W. H. Smith while here last Sunday advised the people to build a board arbor and arrange it for preaching purposes. I hope the good people will take this advice. We all could soon build one after we get done laying by crops with very little expense.

The crowd here last Sunday drank the spring down one and one half feet, which was lower than ever drunk before.

We are now having very partial seasons. It rains in one neighborhood when it don't in another. We would be glad if a cloud would stop soon over this vicinity and give it a good soaking.

There will be a big non-political horse swapping convention here the 4th of July, with Mr. Edgar Wilkins as President, Van Kershaw, Vice President and Mark Bowling General Manager.

BILL ARP, JR.
The Anniston News has this to say of our fellow-countyman, Col. Jno. M. McKleroy:

"The voluntary movement on behalf of Col. John M. McKleroy for Governor is highly gratifying to every Annistonian. We who know Col. McKleroy best; the people who meet and greet him day by day, and who know his kindly and generous manhood, know that these testimonials to his worth of mind and heart are not overdrawn. And while Colonel McKleroy will not in all probability be a candidate for Governor, it is a source of pride to his people to receive these expressions of the esteem in which their neighbor and friend is held in every part of this commonwealth."

No harm to look. It will pay you to. You might know that a house with the reputation at stake is not going to tell fairy stories in the papers. We want you to see our $15, $18 and $20 suits, because we are confident they will please you.

They certainly ought to. We've put our time and talent and goodness enough in them. We know that $15 and $18 doesn't sound very much, especially if you've been fooling with tailors prices. If what they charge $30 or $35 for will suit, our $15 and $18 grades are sure to be something of a saving, ain't it? You are not tied down to any style. You have more of a variety here than in a half dozen other stores. The cut of the garment is the latest SINGLE and DOUBLE BREASTED SACK SUITS and THREE and FOUR BUTTON CUTAWAY FROCKS.

By the way, have you thought about a business suit for the spring?

What's the matter with a Double breasted Sack? There are going to be lots of them worn, and there are scores of neat effects among our stock, some light, some dark, of course betwixt and between shades. There is lots of style about them; lots of comfort and satisfaction in them.

You see your spring suit and underwear will cost you less than the suit alone from a tailor.

Are you going to wear reglige shirts this summer? See our styles and prices. They will interest you.
